

CHURCH OF SAINT IGNATIUS OF LOYOLA

IGLESIA DE SAN IGNACIO DE LOYOLA

Third Sunday of Easter      Tercer Domingo de Pascua

April 18th, 2021

Peace
be with you!

¡La paz
esté
con ustedes!

Para ayudarnos a tomar seriamente el saludo de Pascua de Jesús, necesitamos crear un espacio en nuestras vidas y corazones donde esa paz con Dios y con nuestros hermanas y hermanos pueda verdaderamente estar en casa.

To help us take Jesus's Easter greeting seriously,
we need to create a space in our lives and in our hearts
where such peace with God and with our sisters and brothers can truly be at home.

A Letter From the Green Team

Hello St. Ignatius Community,

My name is Zack Lippert, and I am the newest member of the St. Ignatius Green Team. It's my pleasure to introduce the first in a series of columns focused on care for our common home, Earth. I joined St. Ignatius shortly after moving to Boston in 2019. I work for National Grid in their energy efficiency group and I manage some of the Mass Save energy offerings. I have a bachelor's degree focused on energy usage and an MBA focused on the business of energy. I was previously an engineer focused on achieving energy savings and optimizing building performance. When I joined the parish, I was looking for a way to get involved that could leverage my interests and skillset. I found the Green Team to be a great fit for me.

With the release of Pope Francis's encyclical Laudato Si' people have been looking for ways to minimize or even eliminate their negative impacts on the environment. While many people have good intentions, figuring out where to start and navigating often-conflicting messages can be overwhelming. We hope this column provides parishioners with a resource to have their questions answered. If you have any specific questions or topics you'd like to learn more about, please submit them to ignatius@bc.edu with Green Team Question in the subject line and it could be answered in future bulletins.

A question that comes up frequently is: how can I truly have an impact on climate change as an individual? There is common sentiment that Climate Change is such a large problem that a normal person can't make a difference. It reminds me of a quote by an English writer, Sydney Smith: "It is the greatest of all mistakes, to do nothing because you can only do little." And I believe Mother Teresa shared this idea when she said, "Not all of us can do great things. But we can do small things with great love." With that in mind, where can your actions have the greatest impact?

There are two major areas for making an impact as an individual, getting active with environmental causes and reducing your personal carbon footprint. Getting involved with organizations like the Global Catholic Climate Movement (they have a Boston Chapter) or the Nature Conservancy, is a good way to amplify your voice and press governments and large corporations to enact cleaner, more sustainable policies. Additionally, calling and/or writing to your elected officials at all levels of government to encourage them to support eco-friendly policies is another way to get your voice heard.

On a personal action level, there are many things individuals can do, starting with an online carbon footprint calculator, such as www.conservation.org/carbon-footprint-calculator, which asks a few questions to determine where your emissions come from. That will give you some insight into what actions you can take in your day-to-day life to have the greatest impact. A few actions that I like recommending to people are:

Hola, Comunidad de San Ignacio:

Mi nombre es Zack Lippert, y soy el nuevo miembro del Equipo Verde de San Ignacio. Es un placer presentar la primera de una serie de columnas enfocadas en el cuidado de nuestro hogar común, la Tierra. Me uní a San Ignacio poco después de mudarme a Boston en 2019. Trabajo para National Grid en su grupo de eficiencia energética y administro algunas de las ofertas energéticas de Mass Save. Tengo una licenciatura enfocada en el uso de energía y un MBA enfocado en el negocio de la energía. Anteriormente era ingeniero enfocado en lograr ahorros de energía y optimizar el rendimiento en las edificaciones. Cuando me uní a la parroquia, estaba buscando una manera de involucrarme que pudiera aprovechar mis intereses y habilidades. Me pareció que el Equipo Verde era el que más se ajustaba a mí.

Con la publicación de la encíclica del Papa Francisco, el Laudato Si', la gente ha estado buscando maneras de minimizar o incluso eliminar sus impactos negativos en el medio ambiente. Si bien muchas personas tienen buenas intenciones, imaginándose por dónde empezar y navegar mensajes a menudo contradictorios puede ser abrumador.

Esperamos que esta columna proporcione a los feligreses un recurso para que sus preguntas sean respondidas. Si tiene alguna pregunta o tema específico sobre el que desea obtener más información, envíelos a ignatius@bc.edu con pregunta al equipo verde en el asunto, podría ser respondida en futuros boletines.

Una pregunta que surge con frecuencia es: ¿cómo puedo realmente tener un impacto en el cambio climático como individuo? Hay un sentimiento común que es que el cambio climático es un problema tan grande que una persona normal no puede marcar la diferencia. Me recuerda a una cita de un escritor inglés, Sydney Smith: "El mayor de todos los errores es no hacer nada porque sólo puedes hacer poco." Y creo que la Madre Teresa compartió esta idea cuando dijo: "No todos podemos hacer grandes cosas. Pero podemos hacer cosas pequeñas con gran amor". Con eso en mente, ¿dónde pueden sus acciones tener el mayor impacto?

Hay dos áreas principales para hacer un impacto como individuo, siendo activo con causas ambientales y reducir la huella de carbono personal. Involucrarse con organizaciones como el Movimiento Climático Católico Global (tienen un Capítulo de Boston) o la Conservación de la Naturaleza, es una buena manera de amplificar tu voz y presionar a los gobiernos y grandes corporaciones para que promulguen políticas más limpias y sostenibles. Además, llamar y/o escribir a tus funcionarios electos en todos los niveles del gobierno para alentarlos a apoyar políticas ecológicas es otra manera de hacer oír tu voz.

A nivel de acción personal, hay muchas cosas que las personas pueden hacer, comenzando con una calculadora de huella de carbono en línea, como www.conservation.org/

1. Sign up for clean electricity. In Massachusetts, you can shop for your electricity generation and there are several providers that offer fully renewable electricity. The state provides a list here: www.energyswitchma.gov
2. Replace old lights with LED bulbs. The price of LEDs has fallen to a point where they are cost competitive with other sources and save a lot of electricity. Although, if you're replacing Compact Fluorescent Lamps make sure to recycle them.
3. Next time you're going out (preferably after the pandemic) consider taking public transportation. Mass transit is a much more efficient mode of travel compared to passenger vehicles.
4. The emissions associated with meat-heavy diets makes it an unsustainable option for our population. There are new plant-based proteins and vegetarian recipes that even ardent carnivores would enjoy. Try replacing a meal or two each week with one of these new alternatives.

Hopefully some of these suggestions have you thinking about ways you can make a difference. If you have any questions for the Green Team, please submit them to ignatius@bc.edu. We look forward to sharing additional ideas and information with you, and being a trusted resource as you take action to become good stewards for creation as Pope Francis calls us to be.

carbon-footprint-calculator, que hace algunas preguntas para determinar de dónde provienen tus emisiones. Eso te dará una idea de las acciones que puedes tomar en tu día a día para tener un mayor impacto. Algunas acciones que me gusta recomendar a la gente son:

1. Registrarse para obtener electricidad limpia. En Massachusetts, puedes comprar tu generación de electricidad y hay varios proveedores que ofrecen electricidad totalmente renovable. El estado proporciona una lista aquí: www.energyswitchma.gov
2. Reemplazar las luces viejas por bombillas LED. El precio de los LED ha caído a un punto en el que son rentables con respecto a otras fuentes y ahorran mucha electricidad. Aunque, si estás reemplazando lámparas fluorescentes compactas, asegúrate de reciclarlas.
3. La próxima vez que salgas (preferiblemente después de la pandemia) considera tomar el transporte público. El transporte masivo es un modo de viaje mucho más eficiente en comparación con los vehículos de pasajeros.
4. Las emisiones asociadas con una dieta rica en carne hacen que esta sea una opción insostenible para nuestra población. Hay nuevas proteínas a base de plantas y recetas vegetarianas que incluso los más carnívoros disfrutarían. Trata de reemplazar una o dos comidas cada semana con una de estas nuevas alternativas.

Esperemos que algunas de estas sugerencias te hagan pensar en maneras en las que puedes marcar la diferencia. Si tienes alguna pregunta para el Equipo Verde, envíalas a ignatius@bc.edu. Esperamos poder compartir ideas e información adicionales contigo, y ser un recurso de confianza a medida que tomes medidas para convertirte en buen administrador para la creación, como el Papa Francisco nos llama a ser.
